Remote Work Policy

This policy describes when and how employees may work away from a firm or client office. It was issued on 10 November 2025 by Firm HR and revised on 1 April 2026, and covers eligibility, core hours, equipment, security expectations and working from another location.

Eligibility and approach

Most roles may work remotely up to three days a week, agreed with the engagement lead and the line manager. Client contracts can require on-site days; those requirements come first. Remote arrangements are reviewed at least once a year.

Core hours and availability

- Core hours are 10 am to 3 pm local time, when you should be reachable for meetings.
- Keep your calendar current and mark when you are away from your desk.
- Attend team ceremonies and client meetings with camera on unless the organiser says otherwise.

Equipment and workspace

The firm provides a laptop, a monitor on request and a one-off home office allowance of $250 for new remote workers. Use a private space for calls so client matters cannot be overheard. Do not use public wifi without the firm VPN.

Working from another location

Situation	Rule
Another city, same country	Up to 10 days a year with manager approval
Another country	Needs HR and tax review at least 30 days ahead
Client site abroad	Follow the Travel and Expenses Guide and client rules

Security

All remote work must follow the IT Security Policy Summary and the Client Confidentiality Reminder. Report a lost or stolen device immediately.
